Style F-4 has an inner rack shell enclosed within a 2" foam lined, front and rear removable lid outer case. Outer casing is 2" foam lined around a shock isolated inner rack shell. This style is used when easy access is needed to front and rear of components.

Each lid is attached with twist catches, one or two per side depending on rack height. Rack shell rail-to-rail depth must be specified at time of ordering as well as rack height in rack units (1 rack unit = 1-3/4"). Rack standard equipment is 10-32 tapped rack rails or 3/8" square hole rack rails can be optionally installed, front and rear mounted.

Applications are for more fragile components negatively affected by vibration and common carrier transit
